Jocelyn Disher:Looks kinda cool!

Wendy Wright:No, but I like the warm, cozy feet idea!

Mary Augugliaro - Infopeople:I agree Wendy!

Ruth Cowles:we're getting closer and closer to Ready Player One

Wendy Wright:<http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/north/james-bay-students-learn-cree-in-virtual-reality-1.3835500>

Joni MK:yes, I love that book, too

Katy Hoffler:Me!

Ruth Cowles:yes

Kelley Ewing: Me

Alexis - Santa Clarita Public Lib.:my cats are.

Jocelyn Disher:Yes

Joni MK:mine have them

Hilary:yes!

Angela:lol!

Virginia Schiller:Unfortunate choice that...

Angela:Feels like its hackable with that warning

Sarah Bowling:It would get obsolete and have to be removed and replaced periodically

Virginia Schiller:Those could be useful if it had basic medical information like allergies and such for EMTs to get quickly

Wendy Wright:how common is this?

Patrick:I'll wait for the wireless flashable firmware

Sereptha Strong:I am assuming that most of these wearable devices are waterproof or fluid proof and are encased in something that makes them break/shutter proof?

Sereptha Strong:And..they stay in place, i.e. they do not float to other parts of the body?

Sereptha Strong:Okay. I will check out the Dangerous Minds website. Thanks!

Amy Mullin:Is the company Dangerous Minds or Dangerous Things?

Tania Harden:<https://dangerousthings.com/>

Sereptha Strong:Oh thanks...I thought she said Dangerous Minds..that's the movie...

Angela:no

Tania Harden:I have heard of them

Ruth Cowles:nope

Jocelyn Disher:No.

Angela:Book/Movie recommendation on this theme: Nerve

Joni MK:thanks angela

Tania Harden:$129.99 vs 199.99 for inexpensive go pro

Alexis - Santa Clarita Public Lib.:I agree Angela. Nerve does depict this and it's really good lol

Angela:Does anyone know what kind of code language is used for augmented and/or virtual reality?

Ruth Cowles:How are privacy issues addressed with live video? Do you have to get permission before shooting?

Laura Solomon:<http://nyti.ms/2kJJNxW>

Angela:want to

Tania Harden:a little

Sarah Bowling:no

Ruth Cowles:no

Gena Marker:just started...venngage

Hilary:tried

Jocelyn Disher:no

Sereptha Strong:No

Maria:no

Gena Marker:easel.ly is another one

Freya:No - I've seen too many not good ones, I'm a bit shy of them.

Diane Bednarski:Love how your speech-to-text says that we may want to jump into Liberia (instead of 'live video')

Angela:Oh has anyone heard about that court case concerning the Echo?

Kelley Ewing:Yes

Angela:No the murder case where police wanted the recording from the device

Kelley Ewing:I mean, I've heard about the murder case

Angela:It kinda faded from the news and I was curious about the result

Kelley Ewing:Yes, me too

Ruth Cowles:I so need this!

Jeff:Nickelback....hahahaha

Virginia Schiller:Angela- About your prev. question. AR would probably be base coded in C++ or C# as they are cross platform friendly. Of note though, you'd have to also handle 3d modeling. Here's an interesting "intro" to the considerations evan:open source alternatives to Echo, <https://opensource.com/article/16/11/open-source-amazon-echo-projects>

Chris Snyder:I've heard that the android auto app does that

Virginia Schiller:<https://waracle.net/introduction-augmented-reality-app-development/>

Angela:Thanks Virginia! :D

Mary Augugliaro - Infopeople:nagging alarm clock!

Virginia Schiller:Terminator...

Angela:but no moral code :(

evan:increasing digital divide with costly wearables etc

Virginia Schiller:Do you consider Chatbots as AI to an extent?

Joni MK:matrix

Freya:The language chatbots I've been using are definitely not AI. Alas.

Leslie:Thank you!

Jocelyn Disher:Thanks! Very interesting.

Sereptha Strong:Great webinar!

Ruth Cowles:This was great info. Thank you

Joni MK:thankyou

Laura:thanks great info!

Angela:Thank you! Wonderful presentation! Such cool things!

Freya:Thank you! It's always a pleasure to hear you speak and I always learn something.

Alexis - Santa Clarita Public Lib.:Thank you!

Julie Scalos:Thank you!

TyeAnn Phillips 2:Very interesting! Thank you!

Sereptha Strong:It's a planter printed in 3 parts...

Sereptha Strong:really cool! :-)

M. Fenton:Thanks
